Robert Oetting and Tonya Crosby received subpoenas as the “custodians” of BCSD documents requested by the FBI.

Timeline: Phyllis White bid adieu to the board in December 2016. Phyllis’ departure was presented as “retirement” by Dr. Moss; however, Phyllis’ departure was actually noted as “resignation” on the employee ratification report the board approved. Reggie Murphy served as interim CFO briefly until Tonya Crosby was elevated to the position in March 2017. The board unanimously approved Ms. Crosby’s promotion to CFO. The board was not asked to vote on Robert Oetting’s promotion, however.

No, she isn't one of them but her ineffective stint as Chief Instructional Officer was a total disaster and it's a welcome departure. Looks like she hung on long enough to get a pension though.

There are several good reasons why a 2019 referendum will fail.

1. A new untested board.
2. A new untested Superintendent.
3. No general county election this November.
4. The new board has not demonstrated transparency within themselves let alone the constituency.
5. The new board has not even tried to reestablish trust with the electorate.

6. Until there is a forensic audit proving to taxpayers the money collected as school tax is being properly overseen and wisely spent...there will be no new money.

And then we get the "sky is falling" approach (IE subjective input rather than objective data) from Geier and Mel Campbell.

"If we are on the roll like (board member Richard) Geier says, it's important that we move forward with this thing to improve the schools. We cannot afford to be late," board member Mel Campbell said. "I'm a believer in the public doing the right thing."

Beaufort Co. Schools administrator to leave 1 year after Moss appointed ...

Bonnie Almond, the curriculum director in Beaufort County SC had previously worked for superintendent Jeff Moss ...

Finding the district's next chief of instructional services will likely be one of Rodriguez's first tasks as superintendent. ??? Hold the Phone!!!

Representative Orischak, and members of the board;

The new employee of the board, Dr. Rodriguez should be given clear direction as to what is expected from his employer (the board) and what the board's priorities are. Hopefully the board has come together with objectives that should include but not be limited to, the list below. These objectives and whether or not they are met should be incorporated when the board prepares the superintendents yearly appraisal.

6.) Until there is a forensic audit proving to taxpayers the money collected as school tax is being properly overseen and wisely spent...there will be no new money.

9.) Only two of the four people who received Federal subpoenas have left the employ of the district. Why are the others still here?

Basically the electorate wants strong fiscal oversight, complete transparency from the school district with all members of the board, not just the chair and vice chair, and a restoration of trust between the board, the school district and the electorate.

As a personal note to Chair Gwozdz and Vice Chair Robine...when you circumvent my representative and all other elected representatives...you have disenfranchised the constituency. What part of democracy don't you get? Totally unacceptable !!!

1. Student Performing on Grade level in all subjects by third grad
2. Expand choice opportunities for parents in each attendance area
3. Evaluate alternative programs and modify, if necessary, to provide effective interventions for our at-risk population
4. Provide quality teachers and administrators in every classroom and building

Rick/All,

Follow the money. Out of the 2013 and 2017 goal(s) of ensuring and retaining quality educators in our schools, the locality supplement was born. Is it enough? Heck no, because teachers most often cite working conditions as the biggest obstacle to teacher retention.

Tricia Fydrich has said on multiple occasions that it's difficult to direct funds appropriately when the new board hasn't determined its priorities/goals yet. Both the 2013 and 2017 goals belonged to other boards. Despite what David Striebinger says, it's time to revisit goals, particularly when voters have all but replaced the previous the school board.

Looking forward to the Ad Hoc Committee's work on establishing measurable goals for our new superintendent.....

Yes

Jerry is correct, by now the sixth grade downward should have all students on grade level at least. The achievement gap would be a much smaller elephant with a short lived future. However, although measurable, that evaluation was without ceremony. We must not reward such mediocrity as we go forward. With our experiences, measurable academic goals are most necessary, John point is well taken.

Looking ahead is how we move forward, confidently and aggressively, with our history book in tow. If each of us follow this path, we will reach our goal.

Come on JoAnn! Why have goals when you can react and shoot from the hip? Please stop acting like an adult!

Joan/All,

The new board has not yet established its goals. Since January's swearing in, the board hit the ground running with a variety of other high-priority tasks.

When Dr. Moss started with the district in 2013, we had a new board in place, as well. The superintendent and board held a workshop early on to establish the board's top priorities. I will try to locate the minutes from that meeting.

I'll circle back....

At the end of the Board meeting, during second Public Comments, Jennifer Morillo, Principal of Robert Smalls International Academy, spoke emotionally about the negative academic impacts that would occur as a result of the Board's elimination of 15 instructional coach positions in order to meet County Council's budget cut request. I was stunned. As one Board member (I can't remember who – but thank you) stated, the proposed FY2019-2020 operating budget must have significantly more Board review to insure that only those expenditures that are not contributing to the Board's goals are eliminated.

Thanks to board members JoAnn Orischak, Rachel Wisnefski, John Dowling and Will Smith for not buying into the bizarre presentation made last night by Herb Berg and CFO Crosby. The duo stood before the board to share the “good news”. It seems Stu Rodman revealed that the council would be satisfied if a million was cut from the budget. This was presented as quite a triumph and they seemed to be waiting for the customary round of applause.

I wonder how Stu Rodman feels about having these coffee klatch negotiations aired publicly? Did everyone on the council know about this before last night and do they agree?

What the other six members seemed to forget was that they had directed the CFO to cut 2% not a fraction of a percent from the budget. Of course, the board was assured over and over again (ad nauseam) that they can always make cuts at a later date. It is highly unlikely to happen, but even if it does, it demonstrated how easily the majority of this board can be manipulated.
