Beaufort County School District – Instructional Services Department

Effective practices for equitably identifying gifted and talented students

Source: National Association for Gifted Children (www.nagc.org)

- The identification process is aligned with the program's definition of giftedness.
- The process of identifying gifted students includes the use of multiple assessments that are not biased against any particular subgroup of students.
- Educators have sufficient training in the administration and use of the assessments that identify gifted students.
- Teachers are fully informed about instructional best practices and the latest research regarding the identification of gifted students.
- There is a process in place whereby the identification process is periodically evaluated to ensure it is reflective of best practices in the identification of gifted students.

NAGC Effective Practice

- The identification process is aligned with the program's definition of giftedness.

South Carolina Definition of Gifted and Talented Students

“Gifted and talented students are those who are identified as demonstrating high performance ability or potential in academic and/or artistic areas and therefore require educational programming beyond that normally provided by the general school programming in order to achieve their potential.”

NAGC Effective Practice

- The process of identifying gifted students includes the use of multiple assessments that are not biased against any particular subgroup of students.

The Identification Process in South Carolina

- Dimension A (Aptitude)
- Dimension B (Achievement)
- Dimension C (Performance Tasks Assessment)

Dimension C - Performance Tasks Assessment

- Use of manipulatives
Low socio-economic and minority students display stronger performance with the use of manipulatives.

- Fewer items
Items that test for reasoning and problem solving within a domain to probe a student's ability to respond to complex task demands.

- Pre-teaching
Providing instructions for the task so students know what they are expected to do even if they have not been previously exposed to the requirements of the task.

NAGC Effective Practices:

- Educators have sufficient training in the administration and use of the assessments that identify gifted students.*
- Teachers are fully informed about instructional best practices and the latest research regarding the identification of gifted students.*
